NET U.S. TOBACCO TRADE REACHES
$243 MILLION IN NOVEMBER

EXPORTS

Tobacco exports contributed $271 million to the U.S. balance of payments in November. Unmanufactured tobacco exports totaled $198 million and tobacco product shipments reached $73 million. At 43,000 tons, unmanufactured leaf exports were nearly double the amount shipped in November 1977, and the volume of tobacco product exports was up about two-thirds. November 1977 trade was restricted by a dockworker strike at Gulf and East Coast ports.

Flue-cured tobacco again dominated unmanufactured tobacco exports, accounting for 72 percent of the total volume shipped during November. Heavy movements to the European Community and Japan were responsible for the strong flue-cured exports. Exports of this type during the first 11 months of calendar 1978 were 15 percent ahead of the 11 months of 1977. Shipments are expected to remain heavy into 1979 as the high-quality 1978 crop moves into export channels.

November burley shipments of 2,000 tons boosted the January-November 1978 total to 40,754 tons, 17 percent above the comparable period in 1977. One-third larger burley exports to the EC were primarily responsible for the increase.

Cigarette exports continued strong in November, with volume of 6.8 billion pieces, valued at $71.6 million. Exports are 15 percent ahead of the first 11 months of 1977, with most major destinations taking more.

IMPORTS

Duty-paid imports for consumption of leaf tobacco and tobacco products totaled $28 million in November. Unmanufactured leaf tobacco was valued at $24 million and products $4 million.

Leaf-tobacco imports for consumption were down 14 percent in volume during November 1978, compared with the November 1977 level. Lower imports from Italy were largely responsible for the drop. Cigarette leaf imports were down 14 percent, and scrap tobacco, other than cigar, fell 9 percent. Cigar scrap was up 42 percent.

General imports (actual arrivals) during November were almost double the volume imported the same month a year earlier. Oriental leaf arrivals soared 183 percent because of larger shipments from Italy and Turkey.

WORLD TOBACCO PRODUCTION UP 2.6 PERCENT; STOCK INCREASE EXPECTED IN 1978

Summary

An 8 percent increase in world oriental leaf production paced the total world tobacco crop in 1978 to 5.59 million tons. (Based on the past 5 years this figure will not need to be revised by more than 2 percent.) All types except fire-cured and dark air-cured cigar tobacco contributed to the 2.6 percent boost. The 1978 crop fell only 1 percent short of the record 1976 crop of 5.66 million tons.

World flue-cured output rose 2.2 percent to 2.3 million tons. Among major flue-cured producers, Canada, the United States, Brazil, and India had larger crops. The quality of the U.S. flue-cured crop harvested in 1978 is described as the best in 4 years and will help relieve the tight supply situation for high-quality flue-cured.

Global burley output reached a record 600,674 tons during 1978, up 3 percent from the 1977 level and 17 percent above the 1972-76 average. Spain's burley production rose by 55 percent.

The 2.6 percent increase in the farm-sales-weight production of leaf tobacco will yield about a 125,000-ton increase in the 1978 supply of unmanufactured tobacco. Consumption is expected to expand by less than 50,000 tons, thus stocks will probably rise by 75,000 tons. The somewhat higher stock level will not likely influence prices for the 1979 crop.

North America

United States tobacco production increased approximately 5 percent in 1978 to surpass the 907,000 ton mark. Area planted was down 1 percent, but good weather improved per hectare yields over those of the 1977 crop. Average tobacco prices were 14 percent above those in 1977, with flue-cured, burley, fire-cured, and cigar tobaccos selling at higher prices; dark air-cured prices declined in 1978.

Flue-cured tobacco production was up 8 percent with prices running 17 percent above the 1977 average. The quality of the 1978 flue-cured crop was much improved.

The jump in volume, price, and quality raised the total value of the crop by 23 percent above 1977.

Burley tobacco production in 1978 was 1 percent above last season's, with auction prices averaging approximately 12 percent higher.

Maryland, fire-cured, and dark air-cured production also rose. Cigar wrapper production fell 7 percent below 1977 production. Prices for the above tobaccos, except for dark air-cured, were slightly higher.

Carryover stocks are expected to gain because of lower disappearance and increased leaf production. Therefore, 1979 production may be slightly lower due to reduced quotas.

Canada Ontario flue-cured tobacco producers and the Canadian Tobacco Manufacturers Council (CTMC) agreed on a guaranteed average price of $1.065 per pound for a target production level of 104,330 tons. Good weather conditions helped boost total Canadian production 9 percent in 1978, with flue-cured tobacco production rising 11 percent.

The CTMC will pay a 7-cent-per-pound rebate on flue-cured exports from the 1978 crop. This rebate coupled with the lower value of the Canadian dollar, will assist exports in 1978/79.

Mexico's tobacco production increased 6 percent in 1978; however, yield per hectare was down because of poor weather conditions. The additional area and production was encouraged by Tabemex's higher guaranteed prices.

Tabamex has approved a 140-million-pesos ($6.2 million) investment program in the States of Chipas, Nayarit, and Veracruz for increased production of burley and Virginia leaf.

The 1979 outlook calls for greater production of light tobacco. The tentative forecast has 45,000 hectares planted to tobacco with an expected yield of 75,000 metric tons.

South America

Argentina experienced another poor growing season in 1978. The Provinces of Jujuy, Salta and Corrientes had excessive rains while Misiones Province suffered severe drought. Production decreased by 25 percent from the 1977 level to 62,141 metric tons.

The flue-cured crop declined 21 percent to 34,541 metric tons. Likewise, burley production fell from 12,183 metric tons in 1977 to 6,730 metric tons in 1978, a 45 percent decrease.

Production is expected to rebound in 1979, assuming normal weather conditions.

Brazil's 1978 production of 329,000 metric tons was 6 percent above the 1977 figure; however, air-cured varieties had a lower yield than anticipated due to dry weather. Flue-cured varieties were not seriously affected by the drought in southern Brazil.

Production in 1978 was bolstered by increased minumum prices. Prices of Virginia-type and amarelinho tobacco jumped 10 and 33 percent, respectively, from those of 1977. Prices of air-cured types rose 9 percent.

Brazil implemented a new grading system in 1978 to encourage production of the higher quality, light tobacco currently in demand in the international market.

The use of sucker control chemicals is gaining popularity. Approximately 80 percent of producers are expected to adopt this practice in order to increase yield.

Colombia's leaf production is estimated at 62,425 metric tons, up 7 percent from the 1977 production level. These higher yields resulted from adequate rain and lower incidence of insect damage. The coastal crop, primarily cigar filler, wrapper, and binder for export, is estimated at 25,440 metric tons. Flue-cured and burley production is estimated at 4,240 metric tons, up 2.7 percent from that of 1977.

Paraguay. The decline in world demand for dark tobacco has caused many producers to shift to light tobacco types and to cotton and soybeans. Estimated production in 1978 was 26,000 tons, down slightly from the 1977 level.

Venezuela. Rains reduced the 1978 tobacco crop to about 15,000 tons, sharply below the early estimate of 21,000 tons. Excessive moisture made prompt harvesting and curing of tobacco difficult.

Production of light tobacco has not kept pace with expanding demand. The 1979 outlook calls for increased production; if weather conditions are favorable, next year's output should reach 21,000 tons.

The Venezuelan Government has instituted a new 45-percent retail tax on cigarettes and a 50 percent tax on pipe tobacco. The tax revenue will go to the National Tobacco Fund for the purpose of channeling money to the development of rural tobacco regions. If this program is successful, the long-run picture for Venezuela is one of increasing tobacco production.

Europe

France's tobacco production rebounded in 1978 from the poor 1977 harvest. Tobacco area dropped 7.5 percent in 1978, but production rose 26.6 percent because of higher yields. This year's crop is estimated to be 55,000 metric tons.

The outlook for 1979 appears to be leveling off with tobacco area around 20,500 hectares. Production should be slightly above the 1978 mark, assuming weather is favorable. The number of growers continues to decline.

Greece. Total tobacco production was 5 percent below 1977 levels, with area planted down slightly. Growing conditions were generally unfavorable; cool temperatures and rain made harvesting difficult.

The oriental tobacco area declined in 1978 by 4 percent. Unfavorable weather plus the decrease in area resulted in an 8 percent decline in production. Burley output rose nearly 8 percent in part because of an expansion in plantings of 5 percent.

Italy's production slipped about 2 percent in 1978 through cutbacks in the area planted to oriental and dark air-cured tobacco and unfavorable weather during the growing season.

Production areas for burley, flue-cured, and fire-cured were expanded by 11, 21 and 6 percent, respectively. However, burley output rose less than 2 percent and flue-cured declined about 1 percent as cool, damp weather delayed planting and created disease problems. Fire-cured output, on the other hand, rose by 10 percent.

Production in 1979 is expected to expand moderately, with further shifts away from dark air-cured and some oriental varieties toward flue-cured and light air-cured burley and Maryland varieties.

Spain's 1978 tobacco crop exceeded 1977's by 47 percent. Government policies, which raised production allotments and support prices, encouraged an 18.5 percent increase in area planted.

Burley leaf was the leading gainer in the 1978 harvest. Yields were nearly 28 percent above those in 1977, as a result of favorable weather.

The 1979 outlook is for expanded flue-cured production. Present plans call for flue-cured area to rise from 150 hectares in 1978, to 500 hectares in 1979, and to 1,200 hectares in 1981.

Turkey. High support prices boosted production 18 percent from that of 1977. The 1978 crop was only 8 percent below the record 1976 crop, which contributed to large Government-held surpluses.

The 1979 outlook depends on a Government decision to implement production controls.

Bulgaria's tobacco area changed very little from the 1977 level but production jumped 44 percent in 1978 because of improved weather conditions. Assuming normal weather conditions, the situation should remain much the same in 1979.

Poland's tobacco area of 43,747 hectares was 20 percent below that of 1977. Total production in 1978 amounted to 62,085 metric tons, 29 percent below the 1977 level. Cold, dry weather early in the growing season reduced yields. Also, the Government's failure to increase prices since 1975 helped lower plantings.

Yugoslavia's production declined approximately 13 percent in 1978 to 60,000 metric tons. Unfavorable weather conditions during planting and a prolonged drought in the major tobacco growing regions caused lower yields and a partial decline in planted area. Producer dissatisfaction with low tobacco prices also reduced plantings.

The Government is considering a new pricing system. Tobacco types will be differentiated into quality lots within types, with higher prices for better grades. High-grade leaf would receive an average price increase of about 19 percent, while prices for lower grades would remain unchanged. Pricing changes may encourage production in 1979.

Africa

Total African production fell approximately 3.5 percent in 1978, largely because of lower production in Rhodesia that more than offset increased output in other African countries.

Malawi's area planted to tobacco mounted 14 percent in 1978, but production rose only 4 percent. South African production reached a record 48,668 tons. Although total area planted increased only 1 percent, good weather and additional use of technology by the growers led to a 17 percent upswing in production. Flue-cured production rose 7 percent, burley by 13 percent, and dark air-cured tobacco by 48 percent. Estimated Rhodesian production is dropped by one-third.

Asia

Indonesia's tobacco production was curtailed by extensive flooding. Total area declined 18 percent and production fell approximately 8 percent.

Tobacco production was also reduced by low fertilizer application because of nonavailability of credit. Low grower prices dissuaded small farmers from planting. Recent reports indicate that the Indonesian Government may institute a tobacco credit program to alleviate the extremely tight credit situation.

India's tobacco crop has been estimated at 430,000 tons, about 4 percent above that of 1977. The flue-cured crop is placed at 145,000 tons from 220,000 hectares. The 1979 crop is expected again to exceed 400,000 tons.

Japan's tobacco production in 1978 was practically unchanged from the 1977 level. The authorized production area in 1978 was 1 percent smaller than in 1977 and a cut of 1 to 2 percent is anticipated for 1979. The Government tobacco monopoly is implementing a new price structure intended to encourage production of higher quality tobacco.

Pakistan's tobacco production grew 12 percent in 1978, with flue-cured production increasing 6 percent. Higher tobacco prices, resulting from greater domestic consumption and exports, have spurred production. The 1979 outlook calls for increased production, particularly of flue-cured.

China. Production is estimated to have remained unchanged. China is the largest tobacco producer and consumer in the world. The smoking age population continues to increase and official sources have not commented on smoking and health considerations.

Philippine tobacco production fell 6 percent in 1978. Flue-cured production is down 6 percent. Cigar tobacco output fell by 20 percent. Burley production on the other hand, rose by one-third to 11,000 tons primarily due to favorable weather and higher prices.

Declining export demand for cigar tobacco has brought a reduction in the area planted for this type.

Poor weather conditions caused a 3 percent decrease in Thailand's tobacco production. Flue-cured production was down 7 percent while burley and oriental tobacco rose 3.5 and 6 percent, respectively.

The 1979 outlook is for greater output of flue-cured burley and oriental tobacco and a cutback in native suncured tobacco.

Republic of Korea. Production dropped 4 percent largely because of unfavorable weather even though area planted was up 3 percent from the 1977 level. Flue-cured leaf production was only slightly below the 1977 mark; however, burley tobacco, with a total production of 45,841 tons, declined 11 percent in 1978.

The Government will raise prices paid to tobacco farmers by about 18 percent to encourage production in 1979.

Australia's tobacco production declined 6 percent in 1978, as a result of the short-sell arrangements that effectively lowered the total area planted by approximately 6 percent.

The 1979 quota of 15,300 tons is 1,044 tons above the 1978 figure. Production is presently estimated at 16,000 tons for 1979. Grower prices are expected to increase by 5 percent in 1979.

U.S. TOBACCO EXPORTS REACH $2.1 BILLION TOP 1977 RECORD; IMPORTS UP SLIGHTLY

The combined value of U.S. unmanufactured leaf tobacco and tobacco product exports reached a record $2.125 billion during calendar 1978. Unmanufactured leaf shipments rose 24 percent to $1.36 billion and manufactured products jumped 20 percent to $766 million. Duty-paid imports of leaf and products were up only 15 percent to $428 million. Tobacco's net trade contribution reached $1.7 billion.

Exports

Summary

Unmanufactured tobacco export volume reached a record 317,527 tons, up 11 percent from the 1977 level and 20 percent above the 1971-75 average. A fourth-quarter surge was primarily responsible for the record year. The 59 percent increase over the last 3 months of 1977 is somewhat misleading, however, because of the dockworker strike that disrupted trade during October and November 1977. However, even when compared with the 1972-76 quarterly average, October-December 1978 movements were up 41 percent.

Shipments to the United Kingdom more than tripled during the past year making it the No. 1 market for U.S. tobacco in 1978, bumping Japan to second place. Shipments to the European Community, the largest aggregate U.S. market, were up 43 percent to 152,476 tons.

Because of a change in export classification during 1977, blended, stripped leaf tobacco is now shown in the export category, Other Unmanufactured Tobacco NEC, a change that should be considered when comparing 1978 with earlier years. Previously this tobacco was classified as Bulk Smoking Tobacco, a manufactured product. As a result of this change the Other Unmanufactured Tobacco NEC category increased from 14 tons in 1977 to 5,554 tons in 1978 and Bulk Smoking Tobacco fell from 4,459 tons to 982 tons during the same period.

By Type

Flue-cured leaf exports were up 10 percent during 1978 to 206,279 tons; larger shipments to the United Kingdom, France, Belgium-Luxembourg, and Spain more than offset losses in Japan and West Germany.

Flue-cured shipments contributed substantially to the vigorous export activity in the final months of 1978. Movements in the October-December period were up one half compared with average 1972-76 shipments and were almost 60 percent ahead of fourth-quarter 1977 exports. Low stocks of high-quality U.S. flue-cured tobacco in many importing countries prompted foreign buyers to make heavy purchases of the U.S. flue-cured crop sold in the fall of 1978. This was the best quality U.S. crop in several years and competitive bidding drove auction prices up 15 percent compared with those of 1977. Although the U.S. export price of flue-cured leaf was up 11 percent to $4.96 per kilogram (kg), the actual cost to many importers was down because of a weaker U.S. dollar.

Burley exports continued the uptrend of recent years, increasing 15 percent to 41,295 tons. The strength in demand was primarily in Western Europe as shipments to Sweden, the EC, and Switzerland increased. Exports to Asia, the other major market area, were little changed from those of a year earlier. The average export price rose 8 percent to $4.55 per kg.

The export pattern among other types was mixed. Fire-cured and sun-cured exports were up 11 percent to 11,402 tons. Maryland leaf movements jumped 38 percent because of a 941-ton shipment to Ecuador. Cigar leaf movements were off 13 percent because of losses in the EC, Malaysia, and Singapore. Exports of tobacco stems were stable, 73-percent larger movements to the EC offsetting losses in other markets.

Manufactured Tobacco

Cigarette exports accounted for 98 percent of the total value of product exports in 1978. Value reached a record high of $750 million, and volume was up 11 percent to 74.4 billion pieces.

Belgium-Luxembourg, a large transshipment center for U.S. cigarettes, remained the largest export destination. Quantity was up 18 percent and value 28 percent. Shipments to the Netherlands were nearly four times the 1977 level, making this country the eleventh largest U.S. export market. Many of these cigarettes are believed to be transshipped to other markets.

The farm-sales-weight leaf equivalent of the U.S. tobacco contained in the 1978 cigarette exports was about 54,000 tons (30,000 tons of flue-cured, 23,000 tons of burley, and 800 tons of Maryland).

Outlook

Leaf tobacco exports are expected to remain strong during at least the first half of 1979. Much of the flue-cured crop sold in 1978 has not been shipped and will move during this period. Foreign manufacturers are expected to continue to take advantage of the favorable exchange rate and the high-quality 1978 flue-cured crop to rebuild their stocks of U.S. leaf.

Total 1979 leaf exports will depend in part on the quantity and quality of the crop harvested in 1979. If quality is acceptable and availability adequate, the cumulative 1979 volume could be near the 1978 record. The 7 percent increase in the support price of flue-cured tobacco is not expected to dampen demand if crop quality is acceptable. Higher export prices will likely boost the total value to a new record.

The outlook for cigarette exports remains bright and they should register another significant increase in 1979.

Imports

Summary

U.S. duty-paid imports of unmanufactured tobacco were up 6 percent in volume and 16 percent in value. The average price per kilogram rose from $2.28 in 1977 to $2.48 in 1978. The dollar price of all leading types was up, with price increases for foreign-grown flue-cured and oriental leaf setting the pace.

Although leaf tobacco imports have increased in recent years, the balance is still heavily in favor of U.S. exports. For every dollar's worth of tobacco and tobacco products imported in 1978 the U.S. exported almost five dollars worth of tobacco. The dependence of U.S. tobacco farmers on world tobacco trade is illustrated by the fact that nearly 4 out of every 10 pounds of tobacco produced is exported.

By Type

Imports of Other Cigarette Leaf, the largest import category, which is mostly oriental tobacco, rebounded from last year's slight decline to register a 6 percent increase in volume and a 15 percent increase in value. Scrap tobacco imports were up 11 percent in quantity to 54,011 tons and 25 percent in value to $98.1 million. About one-fourth of this is classified as cigar tobacco and the remainder is primarily low-grade filler tobacco used in cigarettes. The major suppliers of this type—Brazil, South Korea, and the Philippines—retained their relative positions in 1978.

Imports of flue-cured tobacco for consumption during 1978 totaled 2,367 tons valued at $4.6 million. Burley imports declined 26 percent from 1977 to 1978. Imports from Brazil, Italy, and Korea were well below last year's mark; however, imports from Mexico were up 33 percent compared with the 1977 level.

Outlook

Imports will likely continue to increase during 1979 with the scrap category setting the pace. Given the high price of domestic filler tobacco, manufacturers may continue to turn to overseas suppliers to fill their needs. In view of relatively low carry-in stocks for 1979, oriental leaf imports may also rise in the year ahead.

U.S. Stocks of Foreign-Grown Tobacco

Stocks of foreign-grown tobacco held by U.S. manufacturers and dealers on January 1, 1979, totaled 324,666 tons, up 2 percent from the year-earlier level. Cigar leaf stocks followed the downtrend of recent years, falling an additional 7 percent. However, cigarette leaf more than offset the decline with a 4 percent increase. Oriental stocks were down 5 percent; flue-cured and burley stocks rose 13 percent and 17 percent, respectively.

NET U.S. TOBACCO TRADE AT $82 MILLION IN JANUARY

Net U.S. tobacco trade in January 1979 slipped to $82 million in the black compared with $99 million in January 1978, when exports were inflated by post-dock strike shipments. The net balance for October-January trade, however, showed a big gain in 1978/79 over the 1977/78 period, jumping from $487 million to $746 million.

EXPORTS

U.S. tobacco exports totaled $127 million in January 1979 with leaf tobacco and tobacco products contributing $79 million and $48 million, respectively. The 16,469 tons of unmanufactured tobacco shipped was 31 percent less than the quantity exported in January 1978. The decline resulted from decreased shipments to the European Community and reflects in part the unusually high export levels of January 1978 following the U.S. dock strike.

Flue-cured leaf accounted for 79 percent of total unmanufactured tobacco exported in January with over half the exports of that type destined for Japan and Taiwan. The average value of flue-cured exports reached $5.31 per kilogram, up 3 percent from the January 1978 level.

Cigarette exports of 4.4 billion pieces were 16 percent higher than in January 1978. The average unit price increased by 7 percent, the total value of cigarette exports rose from $36.4 million in January 1978 to $46.0 million in January 1979.

IMPORTS

Duty-paid imports of leaf tobacco and tobacco products for consumption totaled $45 million in January. Unmanufactured leaf tobacco was valued at $42 million and products at $3 million. Leaf-tobacco imports for consumption were up 38 percent in volume during January 1979 compared with the previous January's level. The larger imports were primarily due to Italian, South Korean, and Mexican scrap tobacco released from bond. The lower than expected average price of $2.17 per kilogram for imports can be attributed to the greater proportion of traditionally low priced scrap imports and the slightly decreased imports of higher priced oriental.

General imports (actual arrivals) during January were 43 percent greater in volume than January 1978. Oriental leaf leaped 53 percent in volume and 117 percent in value due to larger shipments from Turkey. General imports of scrap tobacco remained stable.

WORLD TOBACCO TRADE UP IN 1978

Summary

World tobacco exports and imports rose in 1978, with U.S. exports at a record level.

World tobacco exports reached 1.412 million tons in 1978, up 9 percent from the level of 1977, but still slightly below the alltime record of 1.414 million tons set in 1974. Strong export demand for U.S., Greek, Turkish, and Dominican Republic leaf were responsible for 80,000 of the 123,000-ton increase during the past year. U.K. reexports of leaf tobacco rose by 40,000 tons, compared with 1977 reexports; most of the reexports were to other countries in the European Community.

World imports were up 129,000 tons as declared arrivals in the United Kingdom, the United States, and West Germany increased by 91,000, 27,000, and 21,000 tons, respectively. Japan and Italy bucked the trend with 9,000- and 14,000-ton declines.

Principal Trading Countries

United States unmanufactured tobacco exports and reexports reached the record trade figure of 320,861 tons in 1978. Spurring exports were an excellent quality crop, coupled with favorable exchange rates and manufacturers' apparent decision to rebuild stocks of high quality U.S. leaf. For the first time in recent years, exports of flue-cured tobacco exceeded domestic use.

Shipments to the United Kingdom more than tripled during the past year, making it the No. 1 market for U.S. tobacco in 1978, bumping Japan to second place. Much of the U.S. leaf entering the U.K. was for reexport to other EC countries. Total leaf shipments to the European Community, the largest aggregate U.S. market, were up 43 percent to 152,476 tons.

Prospects for 1979 are good, although exports may not reach the record of 1978. Importers have higher levels of U.S. leaf in their stocks, and they will most likely be facing an appreciating dollar and a slack world economy.

U.S. duty-paid imports of unmanufactured tobacco were up 6 percent in volume and 16 percent in value.

Imports of scrap tobacco increased 11 percent in 1978, with value increasing 25 percent. Scrap from the EC increased from 501 tons in 1977 to 2,708 tons in 1978. Philippine scrap increased 11 percent, from 6,040 tons in 1977 to 6,724 tons in 1978.

Imports of "other cigarette leaf," the largest import category, consisting mostly of oriental tobacco, rebounded by 3,500 tons—a 5 percent increase. The value of this category increased 15 percent from the 1977 level.

European Community took an estimated 45 percent of total world imports. The United Kingdom led all members in imports; it acted as an intermediary port for tariff purposes. Germany's imports rose 7 percent, France's were up 24 percent.

The United Kingdom was the world's leading importer by volume. U.S. tobacco accounted for more than 82 percent of the increased import volume in 1978. This increase represented a quadrupling of U.K. imports of U.S. leaf compared with the 1977 level, while imports from all other sources fell below their 1977 levels.

U.K. reexports have concurrently risen, with West Germany the principal destination. West German importers were able to save substantially on EC import duties by importing through the United Kingdom.

Manufacturer utilization in the U.K. was up 5 percent in 1978. U.S. flue-cured leaf made up one-fourth of total use. Exports of cigarettes, as well as domestic consumption, are not expected to increase significantly in 1979.

West German imports rose 8 percent in 1978. Imports of U.S. leaf remained at levels consistent with those of previous years. Imports in 1979 should remain around the 1978 mark.

The Netherlands raw tobacco imports gained by 8 percent in 1978. Imports of U.S. leaf increased 9 percent, raising the U.S. market share from 14.6 in 1977 to 16.4 percent in 1978. Imports from African competitors were off approximately one-half as Dutch importers rebuilt stocks of U.S. tobacco.

Dutch imports in 1979 may not reach the level of 1978. Cigarette output is not expected to increase in 1979 and reexports of raw leaf may match those in 1978.

Belgium-Luxembourg imports declined by 8 percent with the direct import of U.S. leaf down 55 percent from the 1977 mark. The U.S. market share declined from 16.2 percent in 1977 to 7.9 percent in 1978. This, however, does not reflect the amount of leaf shipped via the Netherlands. Sources report that the actual use of U.S. leaf has remained near the 1977 figure.

Leaf imports from Brazil, Italy, the Republic of South Africa, and Mozambique were all smaller in 1978, whereas gains were registered in imports from Greece and France.

Belgium's exports of tobacco products were up; however, domestic output declined 5 percent in 1978. Cigarette production is expected to recover in 1979, and leaf imports may increase slightly as a result.

France's imports surged 24 percent in 1978 but were still below their 1976 peak. U.S. exports made major gains in the French market, increasing 18 percent over the 1976 figure. Asian and East European exporters also gained, while the South American share fell.

Italy's exports recovered slightly to reach 43,915 tons but remained 18 percent below the 1976 export total. EC member countries increased their imports from Italy, while U.S. imports were down 9 percent.

Imports of raw leaf dropped 40 percent in 1978 to 20,270 tons, partially because of the improved exchange rate between the lira and many other currencies. Additionally, a 20 percent increase in cigarette prices and higher unofficial cigarette imports reduced sales of domestic brands and led to a 4 percent decline in cigarette output in 1978.

Brazil's 1978 tobacco exports rose to 116,400 tons, 3 percent above the 1977 level. Exports of Southern Brazil cigarette leaf were unchanged from those of 1977; however, Northeast tobacco exports rebounded from their poor showing in 1977 to a level comparable to the 1976 export figure.

Brazil's production is estimated to be up 8 percent in 1979, with the Southern leaf crop up 16 percent over the 1978 figure. The larger supply and improved quality resulting from the new leaf-grading system should boost exports in 1979.

Japan's imports in 1979 are expected to be down approximately 20 percent from the 1978 mark of 87,373 tons. U.S. exports to Japan are expected to be down about 14 percent in Japanese fiscal year 1979.

Japan presently has stocks of foreign leaf in excess of manufacturing requirements. In addition, cigarette production is expected to decline in 1979 and to remain around 300 billion pieces. Should production stabilize at this level, annual imports of leaf may be held to around 70,000 tons over the next few years, to allow stock drawdown.

India's goal of increasing flue-cured production for export has not been a great success. Stocks continue to build up as exports have remained relatively stable over recent years. Exports could continue in the range of 75,000-80,000 tons.

The USSR and the United Kingdom account for more than half of India's tobacco exports.

Spain's imports in 1978 were down 7 percent from the 1977 mark, in part because of a 19 percent increase in leaf production and a 4 percent decrease in manufacturer use. Leading suppliers were Brazil, Cuba, the Dominican Republic, and the United States. U.S. exports to Spain may remain at a relatively stable level since an American blend cigarette has been licensed for production in Spain.

Turkey's exports of unmanufactured leaf jumped 25 percent in 1978 to 77,335 tons, valued at $225.3 million. The United States continues to be the leading customer for Turkish tobacco, taking about 45 percent of the country's exports.

Turkish officials have cautioned producers against increasing production in 1979, although lira devaluation should aid exports. The monopoly has had to purchase approximately 80 percent of the crop; making an ample supply of leaf available for export.

Greece's leaf exports in 1978 increased 31.2 percent above the 1977 figure. However, a disappointing burley crop lowered exports of this type by 6 percent. The higher price of the export oriental crop raised 1978 export earnings 40 percent over the 1977 mark.

U.S. imports of Greek oriental tobacco jumped 62 percent in 1978, while burley imports fell 37 percent. Total U.S. imports from Greece increased 58 percent over the 1977 level. West Germany, the USSR, and Egypt were other major importers.

South Korean imports and exports of unmanufactured leaf reached new records in 1978. Leaf exports edged up 2 percent over the 1977 level to 49,584 tons; imports, however, jumped to 10,145 tons, up 49 percent. The Republic of Korea is committed to improving the quality of manufactured tobacco products. Imports have kept pace in order to fulfill blending needs, with 52 percent of the imported leaf coming from the United States.

Korea's stocks on hand at the end of 1978 were 17 percent higher than in 1977. Imports in 1979 may increase only slightly over the 1978 figure.

The United States was the largest customer for South Korean leaf, with burley imports leading. The United Kingdom was the largest importer of Korean flue-cured leaf.

Switzerland's unmanufactured leaf imports were down 11 percent in 1978. Imports from the United States were off about 15 percent.

Swiss imports by leaf type also changed: Burley imports dropped 56 percent, reportedly for price reasons; flue-cured fell 13.5 percent. Imports of stems rose 48 percent. U.S. exports of Maryland-type tobacco to Switzerland were off 22 percent in the first 5 months of 1979 compared with the corresponding 1978 period.

Swiss cigarette consumption is down 2 percent and is not expected to change dramatically in 1979. Leaf imports, therefore, are not likely to increase in 1979, unless Swiss cigarette exports recover.

Canada's export rebate program was very successful in increasing leaf tobacco trade. Exports jumped 39 percent in 1978 to 32,647 tons. The rebate program is expected to be continued in 1979.

The Philippine economy had another poor year in 1978. A trade deficit—$1.31 billion in 1978—is expected to continue into 1979, and may limit the amount of foreign exchange available for tobacco imports.

Tobacco trade was down in 1978. Imports fell by 2.4 percent, while exports declined 7 percent below the 1977 figure.

Domestic consumption is also down slightly from the 1977 level; however, stocks were drawn down in 1978 by 27 percent. The outlook for 1979 is for a slight increase in imports, but small foreign exchange reserves may dampen any major surge.

Mexican leaf exports in 1978 were 42 percent above 1977 exports. The light-leaf category accounted for 81 percent of Mexico's total tobacco exports. Dark-tobacco exports increased 49 percent over the 1977 level. The United States remains the leading market for Mexican exports, taking approximately 85 percent of their light-leaf exports and 44 percent of the dark-leaf trade in 1978.

Exports are expected to rise to 29,000 tons in 1979, with imports remaining insignificant.

Thailand exported four times as much tobacco during 1978 as it imported. Flue-cured tobacco accounted for 88 percent of total exports and was destined primarily for the U.K., West Germany, Japan, and Italy. Burley exports were 20 percent above the 1977 level, with the United States, Hong Kong, the Philippines, and West Germany as primary destinations.

Thai imports fell by one-fourth from the high level of 1977 as Government restrictions limited foreign exchange for tobacco imports during 1978. The 1979 import outlook will depend on the health of the Thai economy and monopoly decisions. Stocks of foreign leaf are very low; however, foreign exchange limitations may slow down rebuilding of stocks.

The Dominican Republic's tobacco exports during 1978 were almost double the 1977 level as shipments returned to more normal levels. Movements to most markets were higher. Spain remained the major market for the dark leaf, taking over 40 percent of the total. France and the United States accounted for 14 and 10 percent of the exports, respectively.
